

OPENED IN: 2001

COURSE ARCHITECT: David Harman

LOCATION: Kauri Cliffs Golf Course is located on the East Coast of New Zealand's North Island, in Matauri Bay. This singular perch overlooking the Northland's Bay of Islands region makes for a near-perfect, sub-tropical, year-round travel destination for golfers.

COURSE DESCRIPTION: Kauri Cliffs Golf Course features 18 holes of golf designed by Nicklaus protégé David Harman. All 18 greens were recently regrassed and Kiwis agree: These are the best, trust-putting surfaces in the country, north or south. While the course has garnered numerous accolades and awards, including being ranked among the Top 100 Golf Courses in the World, Kauri Cliffs Golf Course is perhaps best known for its peerless setting. Fifteen holes offer spectacular, long views of the Pacific Ocean, out across the Cavalli Islands. Six play directly alongside lush cliffs that plunge 75 meters down to the sea. Cape Brett provides yet another stunning backdrop. The course itself ranges inland over massive landforms, across ravines and down subtropical valley, though always returning to the sea. It offers a stern examination for those who choose it: The Tiger Tees measure more than 7,100 yards. Kauri played host to the 2003 'Shell's Wonderful World of Golf' match between Fred Couples and Michael Campbell, and the PGA TOUR's Kiwi Challenge in 2008. When it comes to pure golfing aesthetics, however, Kauri Cliffs has few peers.
